The bombardment was started before midnight last night in coordination with carrier raids against the Tokyo area by more than 1,000 planes of the British and American fleets.

The USS Iowa, 45,000-ton battleship, is in the vanguard of the American surface force in the attack on the most important industrial concentration north of the Japanese capital.

It was the third daring sea bombardment of the Japanese homeland targets carried out within four days.

Despite warnings some people went plodding through the liquid that was spread over North Jefferson street this morning, preparatory to applying the resurfacing coating.

"I feel pretty proud of having two nice ripe tomatoes on June 28," writes A. P. Stewart of Wampum, R. D. 2 to Pa. News. "And on July 1 we had our own potatoes. Who has anything better to tell?"

Apparently the St. Smith's day leger, suffered a knockout on the first day following the date. There was no rain in evidence here on Monday.

Folks who feel a little disturbed about the cool night the last few days can look at the weather a year ago, and feel comforted. The mercury dropped to 45 degrees on July 17, 1944, which is just 13 degrees above the freezing point. However, it warmed up right after that.

New Castle saw its first B-29 yesterday evening about 7 o'clock when one of the huge Superfortresses had been flying over Tokyo on a slightly different sort of mission circled high over this city. Glistening in the late sun, the plane looked very beautiful to New Castle eyes, but probably is not so welcome over the Japanese cities which have learned to dread it.

Salute of the new three-cent commemorative stamps, which depict the raising of Old Glory over Mt. Suribachi on Iwo Jima, began today. The new stamp is green in color and bears a replica of the photograph taken of the actual raising of the flag by marines on that historic occasion.

Chinese Forces Renew Assaults Against Paoking

Making Attack On Former American Air Base City In Hunan Province

CHUNGKING, July 17.—(Wednesday)—Chinese forces, supported by the U. S. 14th Air Force, renewed their assaults today on the former American air base city of Paoking in Hunan province.

The city, located on the Yangtze River, was the site of a major American air base during the war.

Fighting continued west of the city where P-51s bombed slit trenches and destroyed a score of buildings Friday.

At the same time, other Chinese columns continued mopping-up operations inside Kailashan and converged from four directions on the Kwangsi provincial capital of Kailashan. Both these cities were one-time American air bases.

Japanese Retreating

Fighting continued northwest of Kailashan where Japanese troops were retreating from the city were intercepted by Chinese forces some six miles from Sukhuan.

In the Chekiang invasion coast area, Chinese troops driving northward toward Shanghai and industrial Hangchow strengthened their positions along a line running through the newly-liberated town of Sing-hang, Tientai and Chongshien.

In the drive toward Kweilin, Chinese units recaptured the town of Lukiansien during a strong advance toward Yungchi, which lies 43 miles southwest of the capital. Enemy troops, retreating at night to avoid air attacks, were expected to make a stand at Kweilin.

Far-ranging American planes attacked 1,000 enemy troops at Pao-ming on the French Indo-China border, wiping out the principal compounds and the command post.

U. S. Staff Correspondent

GUAM, July 17.—(Wednesday)—Thundering waves of at least 1,500 carrier planes from American and British carriers in the greatest assembly of naval power in the Pacific war hammered the reeling Tokyo area today with a massive weight of explosives.

The gigantic aerial onslaught against the enemy capital occurred as a powerful British fleet task force joined the mighty U. S. Third Fleet whose carrier aircraft and surface warships have been blasting the Japanese homeland almost without letup for a full week.

500 Superfortresses joined in the attacks on the Nip homeland this morning, dropping 2,500 tons of fire-bombs on four Japanese industrial centers. It was the second B-29 raid against Japan within 24 hours.

While the carrier attack was in progress, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz predicted even more direct (Continued on Page Two)

On the western side of Borneo world's third largest island, units of the Seventh Aussie Division probed Jap strength in the Brunai Bay sector along the Jesselton railroad.

Strong supporting cover for all Borneo ground operations was furnished by fighter and bomber aircraft, which bombed and strafed supply areas, troop bivouacs and defense positions.

GUAM, July 17.—Four more Japanese cities were aflame today after nearly 500 Superfortresses unloaded 2,500 tons of fire bombs on the enemy industrial centers in the second B-29 strike within 24 hours.

No air opposition was encountered and ground fire was light as the giant American bombers applied the torch to the cities of Kurematsu, Nagasaki and Hiroshima on Honshu and Oita on Kyushu.

Total Now 42 Cities

The four enemy communities fire-bombed today had population ranging from 42,000 to 70,000 and they constituted key manufacturing and industrial centers of the Japanese overworked war machine.

Nation's Food Shortages Can't Be Cured Overnight

By ERWIN D. STAS
U. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson made it clear today that he is not a "miracle man" who can cure the nation's food shortages overnight.

In a report to the people on their food supplies, Anderson bluntly warned them to expect shortages for the rest of 1945.

Furthermore, he said, civilian food prospects for the next 12 or 15 months are "in many ways, not encouraging" and Americans will eat five percent less food this year than last.

Serious Shortages Feared

Anderson frankly admitted the serious shortage of many major food items, including meat and sugar. He declared that increased production, better distribution and elimination of black markets are the remedies needed to cure the situation.

Outlining the above steps as the course he is pursuing, the new "food boss" disclosed that he also has begun rigid policy of "close and constant scrutiny" of military and foreign demands for food.

The following foods he declared will be in short supply for many months—meats, poultry, fats and oils, sugar, condensed and evaporated milk, canned fruits and vegetables, rice and dry beans.

President Truman, Premier Churchill And Premier Stalin Start Conference

STALIN ARRIVES AFTER DAY'S DELAY

WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S PARTY, Potsdam, July 17.—One day behind its official scheduled opening due to the failure of Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin to appear, the Big Three conference got under way at full steam today.

The first session attended by U. S. President Harry S. Truman, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Stalin took place in the afternoon.

Stalin arrived in Potsdam unheralded and his movements shrouded in the usual ironical Kremlin secrecy.

President Truman and Churchill, as far as could be ascertained, went to bed last night with no assurance that the Soviet leader might not keep them waiting another day.

Unless there is a sudden change in procedure matters political and territorial staff members of the three nations represented never will lay eyes on the big three while sitting together.

Alternating Meetings

According to the procedure established while the war in Europe was in progress, the chief executives will meet in each other's residences, alternating daily.

Key advisers and frequently other experts will be called in but on the whole the rest of the big three conference sessions will be kept out of the limelight. The entire conference there still be guarded strictly under circumstances which have been required previously wherever Stalin was present.

Mighty British Fleet Units Join Halsey's Forces

By ELGAR BROWN
U. S. Staff Correspondent

WITH ADMIRAL HALSEY'S FLEET OFF TOKYO, July 17.—Mighty units of the British Pacific fleet joined those of the United States third fleet today in a round armada massed for all attacks on the Tokyo-Yokohama area.

The fleet's jagged forces despite the handicap of adverse weather.

It was the fourth savage aerial bombardment of the Japanese homeland in eight days but it was the initial action of its kind for British units under V. Adm. Sir Bernard Hastings.

Plaster Airframes

Under a new marksmanship the first units comprising persons 1,800 American planes and another few hundred British aircraft began leaving their carriers at dawn.

Targets were the same 80 air-docks in the Kanto Plains network in the Tokyo area plastered by task force 38 July 16.

The raids were launched from the most powerful naval string force ever assembled in the Pacific and were the first aerial strikes by British planes against the Jap homeland.

British planes sped off their flight decks only a few thousand feet above the sea and sped westward toward their fog-screened targets.

The American and British surface craft rendezvoused as smoothly as if they had operated jointly for years and sped westward toward their fog-screened targets.

No Action Yet On Toll Bridges

HARRISBURG, July 17.—(Wednesday)—State highway secretary John U. Shroyer said today that acceptance or rejection of offers for Pennsylvania's 10 toll bridges had been received as yet, but reaffirmed his promise to free the first "by Labor Day."

"I haven't changed my prediction that one of the spans will be toll-free by September," he stated. "I have received word from owners yet, but the situation still is very favorable for the state."

The top purchase price for the structures was fixed at $7,000,000. Two bridges each are located at Harrisburg and Bethlehem and one each at Sunbury, Allentown, Clarcks Ferry, Point Merion, Chalfont and Elbow City.

GUAM, July 17.—(Wednesday)—The pre-invasion stage of the war against Nippon opened with the naval shelling of the enemy homeland over the week-end by Adm. William F. Halsey's U. S. Third Fleet. So declared Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz today in a broadcast from Guam to Navy blueprints at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station in Chicago.

"The 16-inch guns of our battleships, opening fire on industrial targets on Honshu and Hokkaido," Nimitz asserted, "also opened an era in which we dominate the Pacific Ocean approaches to Japan, and when necessary, the air above Japan."

Huge British Battleship In Halsey's Fleet

GUAM July 17.—(INS)—At least nine British ships of a Pacific task force joined Adm. William F. "Bull" Halsey's Third Fleet today off the shores of Guam and the Philippines.

The historic meeting of the two nations' sea forces for the current Pacific campaign, which began in the Pacific theater at the first time in the Pacific conflict that British men of war had moved up to the enemy homeland for direct assault.

British naval forces in the Pacific theater had operated no closer to the Japanese mainland than the Sakishima Islands, between Okinawa and Formosa.

Halsey was in overall command of both the British and American ships off the enemy's shores—the greatest concentration of naval power ever hurled into the battle of Japan.

In addition to the huge battleship King George V, the heavy fast carrier HMS Formidable was named as being present with the British force in a special communiqué issued by Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz.

Two cruisers, the Newfoundland and Black Prince, were identified along with five destroyers—the Quikmatch, Barlett, Grenville, Troubridge and Undine. The Quikmatch belongs to His Majesty's Australian navy.

blistering assaults, accompanied without any opposition from Japan's hiding air forces, represented a large chunk of Japan's 2,000,000 tons of bottoms that still were operable.

American losses for the historic two-day operation included 24 aircraft and 16 fliers, ten of whom were pilots and six air crewmen.

Furious attacks on ground installations over the entire target area virtually crippled Japan's transportation system. Nimitz report did not include the two Jap cities devastated by American surface units.

The communiqué was the third issued by Nimitz within 12 hours and made no further mention of current strikes against the Tokyo area.

Nimitz failed to state specific target areas of the Saturday and Sunday carrier raids but it was presumed that most of the enemy shipping was blasted in the Taiwan straits between Honsu and Hokkaido.

to be the lengthy conferences which took place in Moscow between Stalin and a Chinese delegation. These talks were believed to have served as spade work for the three discussions of the far eastern aspects of the world situation.

Reverse Situation

This situation was the reverse of Cairo where Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek conferred with Churchill and the late President Roosevelt, the latter two filling in Stalin later at Tehran.

Today the Soviet leader may have interesting Chinese proposals in his pocket with which he can deal.

It goes without saying that all Europe is watching the big three closely in the hope of finding some word on the more important problems that are being aired.

German papers in Berlin broke silence today by splashing headlines about the big three. These papers stressed observations by the Soviet newspaper Pravda, the Soviet agency Tass and the Moscow radio which predict that "the composition of a new Europe forms the background of the current consultations."

Shipping Problem

The shipping problem in the war against Japan as a major concern of America and Britain came to the fore meanwhile when President Truman summoned Vice Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the War Shipping Administration, to Berlin.

President Truman's call asked Admiral Land, genius of America's maritime shipping to bring him a full staff of experts. When the president's request went out it was revealed that Admiral Land previously had been asked to stand by in Washington to await such a summons.

Despite the gloomy outlook for the remainder of this year and the months to come, the secretary declared that there "is no cause for alarm" in the food situation.

"But don't expect too much too soon," he added.

consequences for Nippon and devastated the present naval and aerial actions as the "pre-invasion stage" of operations.

Although results of today's massive air blow at Tokyo were still awaited, Nimitz announced in a special communiqué tonight that Halsey's carrier airmen had sunk or damaged 374 Japanese vessels in northern empire waters over the weekend.

Enemy aircraft losses for the two days were revised downward to 37 destroyed and 45 damaged for a total of 82, only one in the air. The rest were knocked out on the ground as the enemy air force refused to give battle.

Loss 24 Aircraft

American losses totaled 24 aircraft, ten pilots and six aircrewmen, although others were probably lost due to extremely bad weather conditions.

In addition, numerous enemy factories, buildings, locomotives, bridges, and vital communications lines were destroyed or damaged by Halsey's airmen who are now attacking the Tokyo area.

Targets in today's carrier attacks were identified as the same 80 air-dromes on the Kanto plain swept July 10 by Halsey's carrier planes.

Joining of the British task force with Adm. William F. "Bull" Halsey's action-loving armada was disclosed a week after more than 1,000 planes of Halsey's carriers had pounded the greater Tokyo area without air opposition.

The second smashing blow at the enemy capital today came after Halsey's carriers, battle ships, cruisers and smaller warships had carried the war to hitherto untouched cities in northern areas of Japan with devastating results.

"When heavy guns of the United States Pacific fleet bombarded two Japanese coastal cities last week," Nimitz asserted in a broadcast to America this morning, "a new phase began in the Pacific war."

Declaring that America now dominates the Pacific ocean approaches to Japan and the air above Japan "when necessary," Nimitz asserted that Japan is in a "desperate defensive position."

Ardent Neighbor Killed By Farmer Near Huntingdon

Roy Mull, 53, Charges Slain Man—Lee Barber 72, With Attentions To His Wife

HUNTINGDON, Pa., July 17.—(INS)—A Huntingdon county farmer was held in the county jail today charged with the killing of an elderly neighbor because he had been paying attention to his wife.

Identified as Roy Mull, 53, of Robertsdale R. D. 1, the man, according to police, telephoned the sheriff's office last night and told authorities he had shot and killed Lee Barber, 72, a retired farmer. Mull added he would await the arrival of the sheriff to surrender.

Sheriff Blair Snyder, accompanied by state police, went to the scene and found Mull waiting for them. Police reported Barber had been killed instantly by two bullets from a high-powered rifle. One bullet had entered the victim's abdomen, and the other had pierced his chest, near the heart.

Neighbor To Ardent

According to police, Mull declared he shot Barber because the elderly man had been calling on Mull's wife for more than two years.

During the phone call to the sheriff's office, Mull said he would wait for the sheriff and police to arrive. When the officials reached the farm, Mull was sitting in his truck and calmly turned over two loaded rifles. Two other loaded rifles were found in the farmhouse.

Police said Mull and Barber had been involved in an argument earlier in the evening when the elderly man had visited the Mull home.

THIRD FLEET IS BOMBING CITY NORTH OF TOKYO

Hitachi at 11 p. m. Japanese time (midnight Guam time) last night according to a flash received from Admiral William F. Halsey's third fleet flagship.

Nimitz' brief initial announcement of the action, released at 12:30 a. m., said the history-making night bombardment "is continuing."

Thunderous 16-inch riffs of the world's most powerful naval force were assembled once blasting the Jap homeland center apparently without any opposition.

Hitachi lacks port facilities and relies heavily on railway links not only with the mining region nearby but also with manufacturing centers at Tokyo and southward. A main coastal rail line crisscrossing along the Honshu coast was subjected to blasting shell-fire from the American ships close inshore.

The Suwayama freight handling yard which handles traffic from 15 mines probably was dealt a crippling blow as well as the Hitachi tunnel which charts show to be only 2,500 yards north of the city and only a mile inland.

The tunnel was comprised of twin tubes and accommodated the vital Johan rail line. Destruction of even the approaches to the tunnel would result in a staggering interruption to Jap transportation.

The city, with a population of some 82,685, apparently was caught sleeping when the first shells landed.

This fact—a secret Chaplin had always guarded—was pieced out of him at a court session held to determine whether he should be required to support 21-month-old Carol Ann Barry pending an appeal of the paternity case in which a jury ruled that he is the father of the baby.

WALKER-MOORHEAD WEDDING IN CHURCH

At 7:30 o'clock in Highland United Presbyterian church, a pretty wedding ceremony of prominence and of interest to many, was impressively solemnized before a throng of several hundred guests, principals being Betty Marie Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howe Gerhard Walker, Somerset, and Lieut. Ben D. Moorhead of Buckingham Field, Fort Meyers, Fla., resident of 3310 Spring street, Harrisburg. He is the son of James E. Moorhead and the late Mildred Davenport Moorhead of 221 East Lincoln avenue, this city.

An artistic arrangement of ferns and graceful palms concealing the entire chancel of the church altar, offered a solid green background to lighted white candles in branching candelabrum. This, too, provided the only light, for the double ring service, with Dr. D. L. Ferguson, pastor of the church, officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was stunningly attired in her wedding gown of all white tulle, with a fitted bodice, featuring a fitted bodice and long fitted sleeves ending with points-over wrists. The high neckline was enhanced with net insertions and dainty appliqued bows of white tulle, which also outlined the pebbled waistline. Her fingertip veil of matching tulle, was caught with a crown of seed pearls. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls and she carried an arm bouquet of lilies, gardenias and Stephanotis.

Miss Margaret Maule of Rockwood was asked to be maid of honor and only attendant to the bride. She made her appearance in a pastel pink marquisette gown with fitted waist, bouffant top length skirt, and three-quarter length sleeves. Her headpiece of matching marquisette, fingertip in length, was held with clusters of fresh flowers that corresponded with her Colonial arm bouquet. It was made up of pink roses, blue Forget-Me-Not and Stephanotis.

Cpl. Donald Ferguson, son of the pastor, now home on furlough, served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Cpl. John Gilliland, Eighth Air Force, and Cpl. Harry Loy, U. S. Armed Forces.

The program of nuptial music was played by Mrs. S. Glenn McCracken, organist, who offered favorite selections of the bride a half hour preceding the ceremony. She also resounded echoes of "I Love You Truly" during and following the exchange of vows. Included in her numbers were: "Narcissus" by Kevin; "Dreams" by McAnis; "Severance" by Moss; "Lovers" by "Severance" by DuBos; and "Ave Maria" by Schubert. The "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin by Wagner was offered for the procession, and the recessional was from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream."

A congratulatory period followed in the church afterwards, the bride and groom with their immediate families, relatives and close friends numbering fifty, retired to The Castleton for an informal reception. The nuptial motif predominated in the all white decorative theme. An array of beautiful gifts received by the couple were also displayed during the reception period.

Later, the couple left on a few days trip, and will continue on to the bridegroom's designated post at Lincoln, Neb., where he will carry out his assigned military duties, where they will take up residence for the present.

The bride is a graduate of Rockwood High school and Thompson Business College of York Pa. She was employed as secretary with the Hon. William S. Livingston Jr., secretary of Internal Affairs, Harrisburg, prior to her marriage.

The bridegroom graduated from John Harris High school in Harrisburg, and attended Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N. J., where he became a member of the Beta Theta Pi Fraternity. Leaving at the completion of his freshman year, he enlisted in the Army Air Forces. He received his commission as a bombardier at Midland Army Air Field, Texas, in January, 1945.

WASHINGTON CALLING

by MARQUIS CHILDS

Truman Is Facing Difficult Ordeal

WASHINGTON, July 17.—It happened a week before President Roosevelt's death. We were sitting in the reception room just off the Senate floor.

The senator was talking about how badly FDR had looked when he had last seen him just before the departure for Warm Springs. The senator was talking, too, about Russia and the grave problem of Soviet-U.S. relations.

"Can you imagine Harry Truman sitting down across from Stalin and staring him to death?" the senator said and he laughed at his own joke.

Lesson In Americanism

Now that Harry Truman is there to sit down across from Stalin, it seems strange to think back to that curiously troubled time when the capacities of the unostentatious, average American who happened to be the president of the United States were so greatly underrated. What has happened in the meantime has been an instructive lesson in Americanism. The average man has risen to the demands of a difficult moment in world history.

President Truman is not trying to scare Stalin to death. He has better sense than that. Because of his reasonable approach to the question of our relations with Russia, the Berlin meeting is being held in an atmosphere far more hopeful than any other would have imagined possible three months ago. Truman had the good sense to send Harry L. Hopkins to Moscow even though many voices were clamoring for the heads of all New Dealers. He utilized Hopkins' knowledge and skill, his great capacity as a negotiator.

Secured Compromise

As Hopkins knows better than anyone else, what he achieved at Moscow was a compromise. It is a compromise that has caused no little bitterness. But it cleared the way for an understanding without which nothing is possible. Stalin, Churchill and Truman meet with the worst obstacles—obstacles that loomed so large three months ago—cleared away.

But even so, Harry Truman faces perhaps the greatest test since he became President. He is going to need all the support that we here at home can give him.

The background for the President's visit is auspicious. The Senate is certain to ratify the charter with only four or five dissenting votes. The Bretton Woods monetary proposal will be adopted, although by a somewhat smaller majority.

How different from Woodrow Wilson's post-World War I visit to Europe! This time the framework of cooperation has been built with American aid and overwhelming American approval.

U. S. Is Last Hope

To understand the real nature of the President's ordeal you must remember that for millions in western Europe America seems like a last hope. Destruction and disintegration have gone so far that only with our substantial help and support can democratic Europe be rebuilt. Even then the chances are not good.

Not alone to governments but to millions of individuals President Truman will symbolize the dream of America—the dream of hope of rebirth. Wherever he goes he will meet with the pleadings and the importunities of a desperate people. One who has seen the ruin of Europe, one can have no idea of the intensity of this despair.

One who has worked closely with Truman during his first three months in office was taking recently of his deservings. He is almost too quick to make decisions, this official said, and to illustrate what he meant he spoke of the President's sudden resolve, before he left on his visit to the Pacific Northwest and San Francisco, to come out for the speaker of the House as his successor should something happen to him. That was a horseback judgment.

In troubled Europe such quick decisions can lead to endless difficulty. As the President with his shrewd commonsense knows very well the European solution will not be quick or easy.

Contrary to first reports, Truman is not making an extensive tour that would take him to a half dozen European countries. Such a tour might cost far more in the end than any gain coming from first-hand knowledge.

The ordeal lies ahead. The outcome will mean much, not merely to Truman the man, but to all of us as Americans.

Another thing some people cannot do now is to borrow a cup of sugar.

THE BIRTH OF BUREAUCRACY

Good morning, Senator! I'm here for that job you promised me.

"Well," stammered the Senator as he glanced over a file showing appointments which he could make, "there are no jobs open that fit your qualifications." But call back again in several weeks.

"But, now Senator," insisted the constituent, "I need a job now and I've closed up my affairs back home so I could locate here. You know you did say you'd find a place for me."

"Humph!" grunted the Senator. "Tell me what I do. I'll appoint a commission to investigate why there are no jobs and you can work on that."

No one on a pension ever complained that he was getting too much, but it is usually all they deserve.

The road to success is as hard but it leads to a soft future.

So did Sgt. Grant!

That I do. That I do. Sure I can't sleep of nights for dreaming of you, darling.

Don't throw bricks unless you are an expert marksman.

Those Americans—how they talk!

A visiting dignitary arrived in New York after a train ride across the country and the one thing that had impressed him most was the rule after mile of fertile, well-tilled fields. He asked his host of the evening: "How do you Americans manage to use up all your bountiful vegetable and fruits?"

"Why we eat all we can," was the ready answer, "and what we can't eat we can."

The dignitary's wife asked him: "What did Mr. Johnson say the Americans did with their excess food?"

He said they ate all they could and what they couldn't they could.

Does Dad down the erting daughter? Maybe she erred because she had the kind of Dad who wouldn't stand by her.

The American people would feel far more friendly toward Argentina if, instead of shipping coxiches to this country, said coxiches arrived filled instead of empty.

The Parent Problem

SHORT COURSES HELD OF LITTLE USE

Some while ago I conducted a conference with high school girls on "choosing a college." From their questions I soon discovered that many of these young people supposed there is some quick, easy way to prepare for a vocation, some thinking in terms of six months or a year.

They probably have been impressed with the way in which many other girls have, since Pearl Harbor, following a short course in a business school or the like, secured a job at high pay, not realizing that such jobs won't soon be very plentiful.

False Alarms
Also, they must have been reading of the short-cut courses which have lured some men in the armed forces for special fields of service and opportunity for advancement. Thousands of youths including not a few veterans, have been led by false plans and expectations, for like reasons.

Some gifted writers have done considerable harm I think at reporting the "achievements" in short-cut intensive courses in the armed forces without pointing out some of the following: 1. Most of these courses have been in narrow technical fields, requiring limited skills, for which there won't be many counterparts in civilian life. 2. Men who work out the curricula and teach these courses have been highly selected from among a large number of able people. 3. The men chosen to take these courses are the cream of learning talent, and even a small percentage of them pass. Most are washed out. 4. The motivation in the service rates can be matched in the ranks of civilians. In mass-education as in the public schools, these conditions can't prevail to a very high degree.

Short-Cut Seekers

The pity of it is that as a rule the less learning aptitude a youth has, the more eager he is to find short-cut ways to learning, while the very one who can hope to profit best from such, except in a few limited fields, nevertheless, each community should provide proper courses for the students, especially of the "trade-school" sort.

On the other hand, the bright youth, man or woman wishing to make most of himself will do well to plan ahead a long course—four years of college and several more years thereafter in a vocational school.

No having the funds to go on to school or college, or wishing to get and hold a job while such is to be had, thousands of young men and women who could profit greatly from further schooling, must resign to a slight school or college.

By all means, the adult should make such opportunities available. Practically every community should conduct night school at varying levels of learning and parents, as well as their employed children, should be on going to school.

But let us not expect to solve our educational problems by the use of short-cut results from the house of study. There is no royal road to learning. At best it is a long, slow uphill road, yet to be taken with a steady hand and a steady heart.

Jap soldiers' future uncertain. That's right, he never knows just what brand he will have to combat suicide on.

It must be doubly galling to a Nip general to not only lose face but also have to hide it in some behind cave.

Oosaka, Japan, an old travel folder declares, has some of the world's finest hotels. The word isn't his, but did have.

Good Taste

By FRANKIE MARKLE

"I am a public school teacher of a class of girls in their early teens. I constantly lecture them on the propriety of street behavior for I have noticed that school girls are sometimes boisterous and ill-mannered when they travel in groups. Won't you give some suggestions on this subject?"

Answer: We must make allowances for the effectiveness of youth but this should not be an excuse for loud, uncouth manners. There is nothing more irritating than a group such as you describe walking about four abreast, making people step aside for them, talking and laughing boisterously. They too often brush against others, push their way through the crowd, ridicule anyone who does not come up to their standards of beauty and manners. Fortunately they are in the minority. I think most young girls realize that femininity is an accomplishment of refinement and that youthful vivacity is vastly different from uncouth, rough behavior.

There is something very appealing about a teen-age girl who has poise and consideration for those older or less fortunate than she. The public schools should have a course in social training for the youngsters whose life does not include this important asset so necessary in after-school days. Why not suggest such a course in your own school? It might sweep the country like a storm and make life more comfortable for all of us. After all it is just as important as the phases of purely mental development on which so much time is spent.

Question: What is the proper way to announce a new residence after one has moved?

Answer: It is customary to mail visiting cards, bearing the new address, to such friends and acquaintances as should be notified of the change. But if you do not care to do this, you might just call them as one telephone.

Present your problems to Mr. Tarkel who will mail personal letters to questions from readers in being stamped, self-addressed envelopes.

Tomorrow—Child Training.

Washington Reports

Judge Arnold Will Miss Public Life Is Belief
Justice Roberts And Hopkins Also Leave Scene
Reserve Officers Are Thinking About The Future

By HELEN K. BARRY

(Central Press Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Carl made up my mind whether or not it was smart for Therman Arnold to resign as justice of the United States court of appeals to go into private law practice with $25,000 a year retainer.

Undoubtedly there is a greater financial future in private law practice than in sitting on the honorable court, but I hate to see a personality as vivid as the Wyoming professor hidden in a commonplace job. It was so entertaining to watch the brilliant Arnold throw himself dramatically at trust busting and a dozen other crusades. Arnold and his charming Frances will soon be bored outside the aura of official life.

Some people say the resignation of the justice is a step back to Wyoming and the race for a senatorship from Laramie. I am inclined to believe this possibility. I can't imagine Therman, with his feet on a desk behind a legal shingle-on-the-door, patiently waiting for clients to ask for advice.

Roberts Will Be Missed Too
I'll miss the news-restrained Justice Owen Roberts sitting on the supreme court in an Oldham room of the United States. I'll also miss the justice with his broad shoulders, in the elevator of our apartment building. The last time I saw Mrs. Roberts, she had passed in the apartment lobby to help Betty Fulbright, wife of the Arkansas senator, adjust roller skates on the Fulbright daughters.

I was on my way to a newspaper in honor of the Truman "Whistle Stop" tour, said Mrs. Roberts. "You'll be sure to have fun," Mrs. Roberts signed a little. "I does get a little monotonous sometimes, having to associate principally with members of my own profession. Why do people think the judiciary wants to stay remote from the rest of the world?" So you are the supreme court lady, I asked. "It looks like a place in heaven for the student in a law school. But it is an honor that demands a price."

New to Harry Hopkins new job. So he is going into the work or something? Officially, he will be labeled arbitrator of the labor and steel industry in New York.

Imagine—the man who was closest friend and confidant of one of the most extraordinary of all American presidents, sandwiched between Stalin and Churchill, according to the post held by the very Justice Walker, once outstanding mayor of New York.

Hopkins Steps Out
Hopkins, former Truman aide, he said Hopkins for shrewdness will be had to the new administration. He was a good ally of Truman's. He has succeeded in conversations with Stalin. And Mrs. Hopkins steps out.

Mr. Truman, who had to seem a mad fellow until you looked at his tight mouth and square jaw, must be one of the toughest presidents the country ever had. He means to run his end of the government of the United States and the large areas that include it as he sees fit, without regard to presidential or Roosevelt customs. Son sure won't be a familiar face in the executive branch of the government, except that of Mr. Truman and Secretary Byrnes.

Hundreds of reserve officers in the Army and Navy are looking for new berths as the day of detachment from military approaches.

Within another month there will be about half the present number of officers in the Washington streets at 4:30 each work-day afternoon. It takes less than a minute to escape from the desks when the alarm second arrives.

Many of the reserve officers are settling in Washington. Candidates in a grain that generally goes into a permanent assignment. Have you ever heard of anybody voluntarily leaving Washington after a taste of its hedge-coder, huh?

COUNSEL FROM A FRIEND
In his address to the Philippine Congress, General MacArthur was tactful without being patronizing. The islands owe a great debt of gratitude to the general for his mastery of the language in which the strategy of surprise was planned with brilliant ambition tactics. But in his speech he does not talk as one whose counsel deserves special credit.

He has called much attention to the free job of rehabilitation, the Philippines, have done in Manila, so grievously misjudged by a barbarous foe. The threat of starvation and pestilence has been met and mastered without disturbance of public order.

The general has rightly commended that the Filipinos have demonstrated capacity for self government and that there is hope for the entire Orient in the pattern of adjustment of relations between East and West that has been worked out in the islands.

What has most concerned those anxious to have the Filipinos enjoy the fullest measure of self government has been the problem of self-defense that independence would create. Events seemed to have brought the answer. Defense, said MacArthur, is no longer national, it is international. Not even the most powerful nation can henceforth safely rely exclusively on its own might. The Philippines, with other nations great and small, couple to find safety in the new structure of international security.

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

When you reach a certain age, you want to forget all about birthdays.

So when my birthday occurred a few days ago, I hoped that it would go by unnoticed.

Well when I woke up, there was a little table alongside of my bed—my wife must have put it there—and on it were several very nice presents, including one from my dog, Deuce, and a lovely card with roses and forget-me-nots and an appropriate poem.

There was an extra special breakfast, and when I returned home that evening there was a surprise birthday party of seven friends.

Each one of them had brought a present, and we had a swell birthday dinner.

I have had many a nice present in my life but the best I ever had was the one the John P. Mead brought.

It was a little bit of meat and a pound of butter.

That was what I call real friendship in these days.

Well, he talked and we laughed and I was duly kidded about getting to be an old man, and when the party wound up at about two o'clock in the morning I went to bed very happy and without the slightest regret that I was a poor old man and that much older in the inevitable.

You may say: "Why is he telling us all about his birthday and about his personal affairs?"

Well, I'll tell you why. You have birthdays, too, and you tell yourself getting older and grayer, and you wonder whether it has been worth living after all.

And so I am telling you how much happiness there can be in life for all of us, if we just look at life in the right way.

During the party someone asked me: "Wouldn't you like to be thirty again?"

No," I said emphatically and I meant it.

I was thirty once and I had all the fun that goes with being young, and all the wisdom that goes with it. It is a wonderful life, but you just look back with wish for the impossible.

Forward looks the way to seek. The everything we lose as the years go by, we gain something.

There hasn't been a day yet in all my life that didn't bring a new thing and a new adventure.

I know there will be more tomorrow for you and me. All we have got to do is to keep our eyes and our heart open.

A few good friends, a sense of humor and heart's simplicity and getting along on what you have—and every day can be a birthday for you.

War Won By A Close Shave

After a war is over people are apt to forget by now how close a margin victory was gained. It takes a mental effort to remember now that it was tough and so for a long time on the approaches to the Nile. People are already beginning to forget how close the Germans came to knocking England out of the war with the flying bombs which turned their full fury on that island base just a little too late to upset Allied plans.

But memory is given a jolt by weapons now being found which Germany developed too late to throw into the fray. One of them is a fighter plane with propellers in both the nose and tail, capable of such speed that it runs away from the fastest Allied planes now in Europe. Had swarms of these planes been available to the nazis at the time of the great raids which broke the back of the German air force in early 1944, the struggle in the skies might have had a different and less happy ending for the Allies.

Of course, battles and wars are not won by ifs. The men and weapons on hand at the decisive hour decide the struggle. Nothing the Germans might have done can now change the outcome. But it is a good thing to keep in mind what might have been for future reference.

The close shaves of the European war and the superior weapons the nazis almost got into production should have taught Americans the absolute necessity of keeping up military research in the years to come. It would be taking a grave risk not to keep up research on arms on the chance that aggressors will come up too late with too little as the Germans did this time.

But It Took A War To Do It

Many millions of persons will be benefited by the progress that has been made in the fight against malaria and other tropical diseases since the outbreak of World War II, and yet it is a discouraging fact that so great a boon as the almost complete conquest of malaria in the Philippines had to wait on the coming of war.

Latest announcements are that the current incidence of malaria among American soldiers in the islands has been cut from 960 cases per 1000 soldiers to 39, and that the chief methods of combating the disease are the use of DDT which kills the carrier mosquitoes.

The savings in both money and life resulting from these measures will far outweigh their cost, yet nowhere in the tropics where malaria is such a scourge were thorough-going efforts made to eliminate it before World War II. Forty-odd years ago yellow fever was overcome through somewhat similar circumstances. It is ironic that war, the great destroyer, has served as a goad for the conquest of human ills.

'The Finest Team On Earth'

With the resignation of Colonel Oleta Culp Hobby as head of the Women's Army Corps, she has herself given an excellent measure of her own services to the Nation and of the part this organization, now numbering 100,000, with other women's service units, has played in this greatest war in history.

Expressing the pride and gratitude she felt in having had the privilege of serving under her country's flag in this struggle, Colonel Hobby remarked that the Wac has proved its worth and "is accepted by the Army and the public as an integral part of the most democratic team on earth."

The same may be said of the Waves, Spars, Marine women and the Army and Navy Nurse Corps. The Wac, for obvious reasons, was the largest of these, and except for the highly valuable Yeoman-Ps of World War I, a drastic innovation in our fighting forces.

Believe About 50 Percent Of Japan's Plane And War Production Has Been Crippled

By JOSEPH A. BORS
U. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 17.—American air forces in the Pacific were headed today toward the destruction of the remaining 50 percent of Japan's crippled plane and war production.

Their course was being charted as the war department disclosed that B-29 superfortresses of the 21st bomber command destroyed Japan of about 6,000 planes and devastated 117 square miles of industrial area in seven months.

From November 24, 1944 through July 9, 1945, some 61,055 incendiary and explosive bombs blackened the Japanese homeland. A total of 46,473 tons were dropped on urban areas and 14,582 tons hit precision targets.

Plane Plants Crippled

An official summary of operational reports revealed that B-29 bombing raids on enemy aircraft factories has cost the production of 3,025 planes, while 919 additional planes were accounted for in action. Of these, 750 were shot down in combat and 159 wrecked on the ground.

The strategic bombing results were achieved in 261 separate major air attacks at a cost of 291 superfortresses lost on mining and assault missions.

Incendiary bombs wiped out 117.16 square miles in 26 cities, including 56 square miles in Tokyo. The damage in Tokyo equals about 51 percent of its total area.

Results from fire bomb attacks in other cities include Yokohama, 44 percent; Kobe, 51 percent; and Kure a naval base, 46 percent.

Cities Heavily Damaged

In the leading industrial cities of Tokyo, Kawasaki, Yokohama, Osaka, Nagoya and Kobe, 29 percent of all industries had been damaged up to June 15. Other damage for these areas included aircraft, 34 percent; ordnance, 20 percent; and shipbuilding and repair facilities, 23 percent.

Reflecting the concentrated character of Japanese war production, it was pointed out that in these cities are located 30 percent of all enemy industry, 40 percent of their aircraft output, 37 percent of ordnance manufacturing and 44 percent of shipbuilding and repair.

Indicating the magnitude of Japan's aircraft losses, the war department said that B-29 raids also cost Nippon 8539 plane engines in addition to the actual plane and production losses.

Soldiers And Sailors Battle Huge Fire In Oregon Woods

PORTLAND, Ore., July 17.—(INS)—Northwest Oregon called in 1,000 soldiers and sailors today to battle a new enemy, a single 20,000 acre fire raging uncontrolled on every side over once-burned land in Tillamook county's Wilson river sector.

High winds whipped the flames along despite the battling crews, but the new manpower and reports of rain nearby raised hopes today for early control.

Fort Lewis Wash. sent 300 troops to join 250 enlisted men and six officers from Vancouver barracks. The naval station at Astoria contributed 415 sailors to the fight which forest officials termed the most desperate in years.

In the path of the flames, but not yet reached, lay millions of feet of fresh-cut timber ready for shipment by the Coates Lumber company of Tillamook.

Powdery white ash from the fire sifted into Portland 100 miles away.

Heavy Guard Over Man Accused In Slaying Of Two

Will Be Arraigned At Easton For
Wife Slaying And Fataally
Shooting Officer

EASTON, Pa., July 17.—(INS)—Ernest Rittenhouse, 30, of Orange, N. J., was held under heavy guard today with two formal charges of murder against him.

The prisoner was captured yesterday ending one of the most extensive manhunts ever staged in the state. More than 75 troopers from New Jersey and Pennsylvania, aided by bloodhounds, scoured a wooded section near Martin's Creek and finally came upon the fugitive who was sleeping in a farmhouse.

He was brought to Easton for arraignment in the axe slaying of his wife, Angelina, and the fatal shooting of Sgt. Cornelius O'Donnell, 43, commander of the Washington, N. J., state police barracks, who tried to arrest him.

Still in critical condition as trooper Frank Perry, who was shot in the chest during the fight in which Rittenhouse resisted arrest, told President Judge Herbert P. Laub in Northampton county court at Easton when arraigned.

"The way I figure it, I done it and I have to face it," Rittenhouse was removed to Warren hospital in New Jersey for treatment of three bullet wounds. His condition was not serious.

Will Investigate Report Hitler Is Now In Argentina

Published Report Asserts Hitler
And Eva Braun Arrived
By Submarine

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(INS)—A State Department spokesman said today that the American embassy at Buenos Aires "naturally" will investigate published reports that Adolf Hitler and his "bride" Eva Braun have arrived in Argentina aboard a Nazi submarine.

The department did not indicate that any specific instructions along this line had been given Ambassador Spuller Braden, but in view of the general situation it was assumed he would act at once on his own authority.

Argentina, even before her declaration of war against the Axis states, had assured the United Nations that she would deny safe haven to any war criminals.

The reports without confirmation in Washington, said that the submarine had been discovered near Patagonia and later surrendered to Argentine authorities who will turn it over to the United States.

The deliverance of a submarine at this late date—more than two months after all U-boats were ordered to surface and put into an Allied port—would require considerable explanation by those in charge, it was said in responsible quarters.

The undersea craft is of latest type and known to be quite capable of journeys from northern Europe to South America.

Expect Bretton Woods Monetary Pact Will Pass

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(INS)—Senate critics of the Bretton Woods International Bank and Stabilization Fund program today sought to roll up a double protest vote on a motion to postpone action.

"It looks as if there will be quite a few voting for amendments or to postpone action," said Sen. Wherry, Nebraska, Republican Whip.

Passage of the legislation authorizing the program drafted by representatives of 44 nations, however, appeared certain. Administration leaders claimed there would be few opposition votes on a showdown.

Sen. Taft, R., Ohio, leading the fight against the legislation, pushed his hopes upon a proposal for postponement until an international economic conference can be held to chart plans for bringing these in a war-stricken world.

Were you ever startled by a fleeting glimpse of a face in a public mirror? . . . Then you looked again and sheepishly recognized your own reflection! It was the unfamiliar setting that fooled you.

Same way, you may not recognize yourself at first as having a financial stake in this company. But you probably do—directly or indirectly.

Directly if you hold some of our stock, like other folks around the state—folks from all walks of life.

Indirectly if you have a savings bank account or life insurance policy as most Americans do. Banks and insurance companies like to re-invest your savings in sound, business-managed electric companies. Some of your money is almost surely working for you here.

You'll be even more pleased with this new view of yourself as a part owner as well as a customer when you remember that your electric company has fought a winning fight throughout the war — to keep the price of your service down and the quality of your service up.

Pfc. L. A. Dewberry Ends Four Years Service In Army

Honorably Discharged After Long Service In Pacific—Three Brothers Still In Service

After more than four years of service, Pfc. Louis A. Dewberry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Dewberry, R. D. 2, has been honorably discharged from the army having received his discharge last week at Camp Dix via the point system having 101.

He entered the army among the first from this city and was among the first boat load which went into the Pacific after Pearl Harbor. He was in five major battles and fought all through the New Guinea campaign in D battery 210, Coast Artillery. He was on Luzon.

During the battle on Luzon their anti-aircraft guns were brought up and used as artillery and he reports that when the Americans cornered several hundred in a depression, hundreds of the Japanese committed harikari in view of the Americans who fired into their ranks.

His last assignment was at Clark field and reports that Manila was ruined by the Japanese.

One Returning To Pacific
He said that the Navy and Air force has done mighty good work over there. He reported the Infantry has done great fighting. Relative to the fighting qualities of Japanese, he said the Japs were good soldiers and would not surrender.

He has three brothers in service: 2nd Lt. Ellsworth who has been in the E. T. O. more than two years and who is now with the Army of occupation in Berlin; Sgt. Frank A. Dewberry, Jr., with the Marines at Cherry Point, N. C. The sergeant spent two years in the Pacific and has signed to go back again and Seamon Second Class Dean Dewberry, who is on duty in Hawaii.

Expect Reduction In Ration Points To Move Butter

PITTSBURGH, July 17.—(INS)—Lowering of the point value of butter brought no noticeable reduction today in Pittsburgh butter stockpiles.

"Sixteen points are still a lot and people are still in a bad way," a chain store spokesman declared.

Another said customers seemed to be "thrilled" at the point reduction. He predicted also sales would decline.

Both predicted the new point value will move butter out of warehouses. The Office of Price Administration reduced the ration value from 24 points.

Need Respite From Everyday Routine

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., July 17.—A respite from everyday routine will pay dividends in both physical and psychological conditioning, says a Pennsylvania State College psychologist advocating brief vacations for America's home front army.

Workers who keep their noses to the grindstone for a prolonged period, Dr. Eugene V. Moore explained, frequently become irritable and jittery lose perspective, and eventually become less efficient.

In keeping with the exigencies of military production and the travel ban, Dr. Moore stressed that the "time out periods" which he advocates, should be regarded strictly as wartime substitutes for traditional peacetime vacationing.

The important thing, he believes, is to break away from everyday work routine. Even after a few days spent on their own front porches, he pointed out, workers will return with renewed enthusiasm, rest, and ideas.

Cigarette Tax In State Lower

HARRISBURG, July 17.—(INS)—The wartime shortage of cigarettes was reflected today in a revenue department report revealing tax collections for the first six months of this year were $1,463,000 less than the same period for 1944.

A department spokesman said revenues from the two-cents a package tax from January 1 through June 30 of this year were $5,548,455 compared with $7,011,470 in the six months period of last year.

At the request of Gov. Edward Martin, the general assembly re-enacted the so-called "emergency" levy and budget officials estimate the commonwealth will realize approximately $27,000,000 during the 1945-47 biennium.

Robert Williams Listed As Casualty

Robert Darrell Williams, S. 2-C, U. S. Navy, son of Mrs. Ethel Williams, Valentine, of 222 Pearson street, has been listed as wounded in the U. S. Navy casualty list released by Secretary Forrester.

No word has as yet been received by his mother from the Navy Department apprising her that her son was wounded.

NEW SIGN FOR TEEN AGE BOOKS

Attention of patrons of the junior department of the public library is attracted to the teen age book alcove by a new sign put up today.

Cleverly executed in black and white pen drawings, the sign illustrates three particular groups of books popular with teen age readers, career books, books on sports, and mysteries.

It was done by Lt. William Nicholson, of the army air force, now home on leave after service in England.

Mustard greens will self-sow themselves if permitted to go to seed.

Waste Paper Collection, Saturday, July 21st PAPER SHORTAGE HITS HOME

Drastic Cuts Will Affect Everybody

NO PAPER TOWELS, NAPKINS OR FACIAL TISSUES — that's what your grocer may report to you one of these days soon. And you may have to carry your order unwrapped, your books and publications may be thinner, some paper articles may be gone from the market — all kinds of paper that you're used to may seem much more scarce than today.

Here's why. Essential military paper and paperboard requirements have made it necessary for the War Production Board to cut the use of woodpulp by 82,000 tons for the second quarter of 1945.

MILITARY NEEDS COME FIRST — NATURALLY — because our fighting men must have the essential wrappings for medicines, food, and other vital supplies. Ammunition boxes, shell cases, blood plasma containers — by the million — are made of paper.

Even more paper may be needed as the war turns to the Pacific. Troops in Europe must continue to be supplied. And goods shipped to the Pacific areas must be double and even triple-wrapped with heavy waterproofed paper to survive the hazardous sea trip, dry rot, dampness, and often poor warehousing.

How to Help Get More Paper Yourself

To avoid further drastic cuts in civilian paper allotments, everyone should turn in waste paper. Waste paper, once reprocessed, is war paper. Paper shipped overseas doesn't come back. But paper for home use can be used again. Here are the two simple rules you should follow:

1. CONSERVE PAPER — Use your own shopping bag, and carry bundles unwrapped except where paper is necessary for sanitary reasons.

2. SAVE WASTE PAPER — Never burn waste paper, but turn in every scrap of it after separating and bundling as shown below.

Volunteer Workers Will Collect Your Paper Saturday

These good neighbors of yours have volunteered to help win the war by serving on the home front without pay. They know how critical the waste paper shortage is. For today all paper is V-paper! Conserve it—save it—turn it in!

LAWRENCE COUNTY SALVAGE COMMITTEE

Divorce Rate In Youngstown High

YOUNGSTOWN, July 17.—Dan Cupid may come in a poor second in Mahoning county this year if the present divorce rate continues.

Figures for the first six months show 605 divorce and alimony actions filed against 893 marriage licenses.

Marriage License Clerk Gomer D. Evans, is hopeful, however, that marriage licenses will increase with the return of servicemen. In June he issued 216 licenses, the most since October, 1941.

Evans reported that many men discharged under the point system are now obtaining licenses.

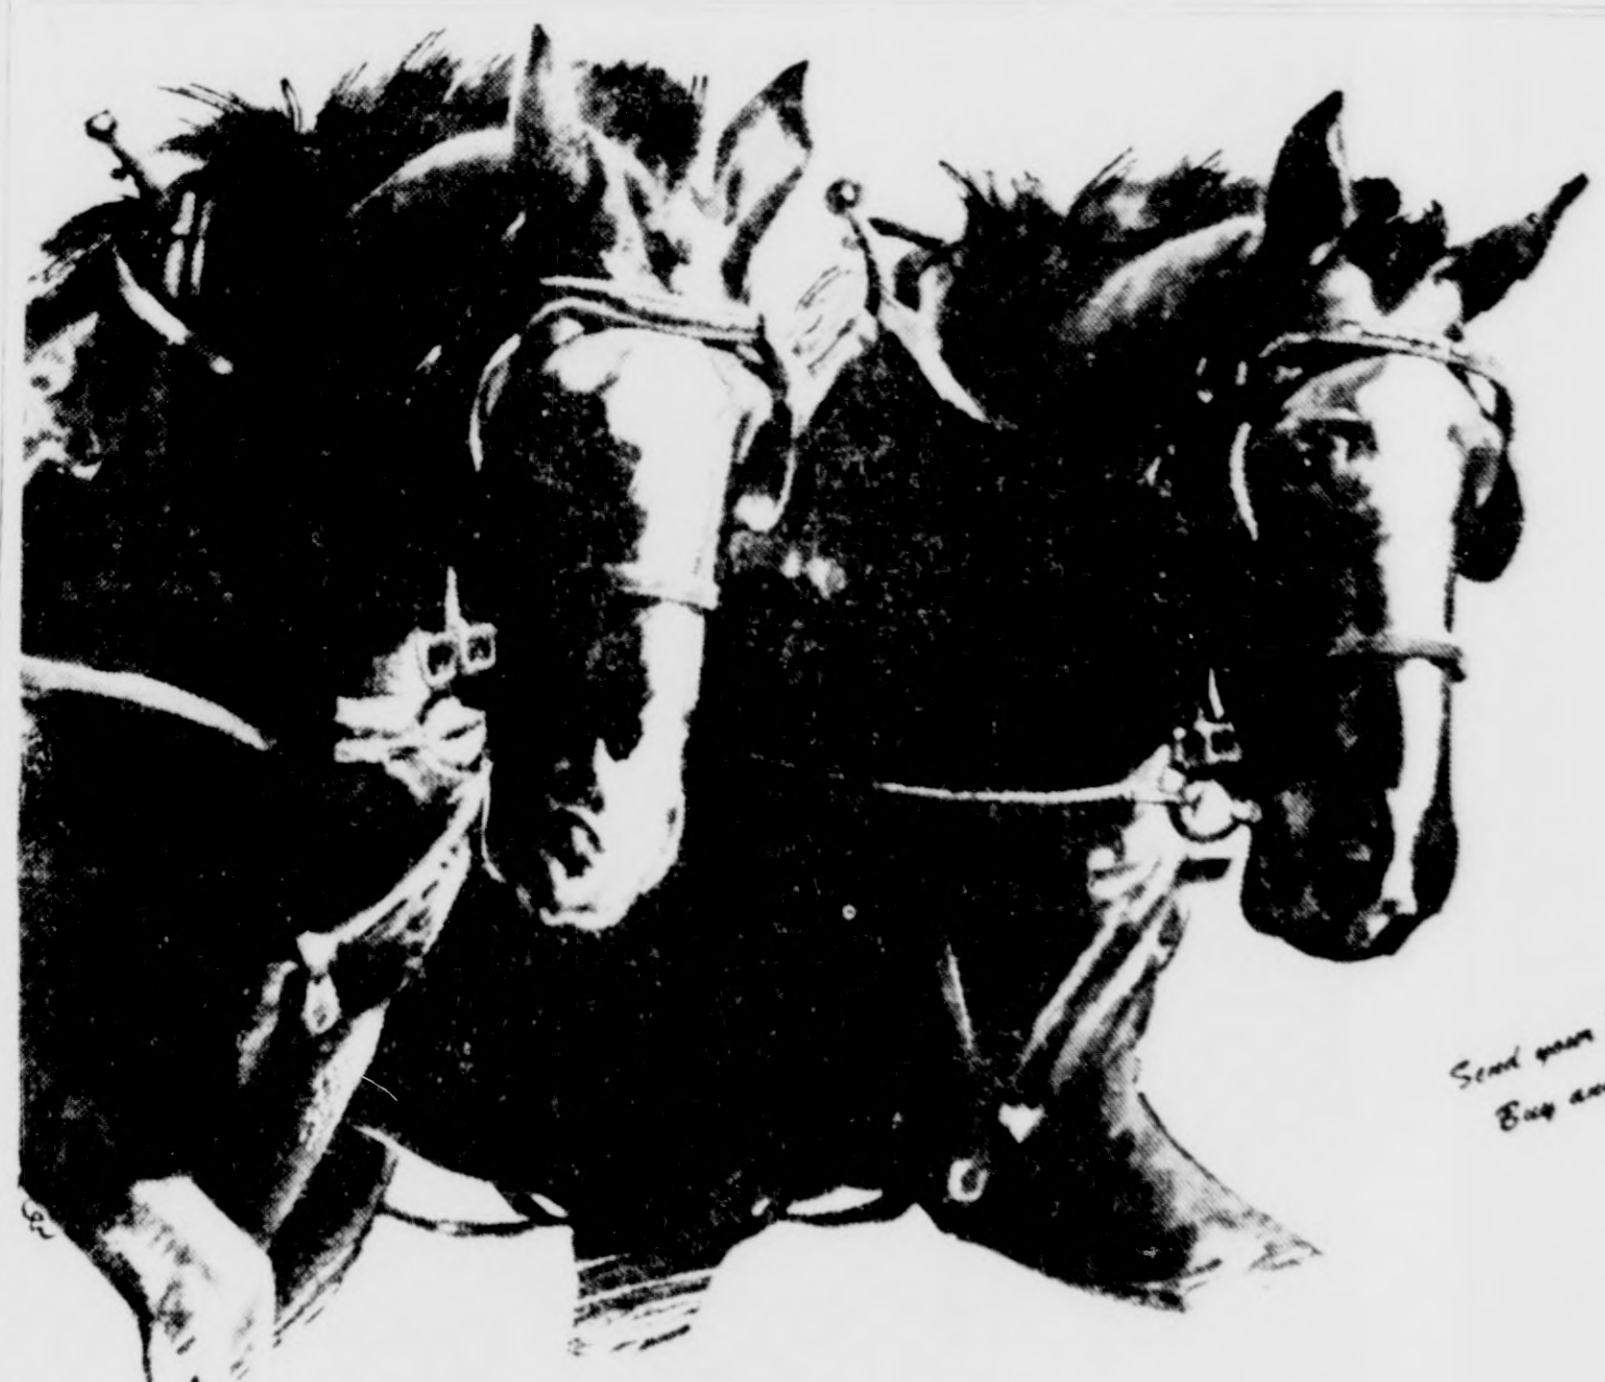

But many a poor serviceman is suffering a nose dive in a fourth floor corner of the courthouse—the domestic relations court.

There, in the first six months Judge Henry P. Beckenbach granted 197 divorces, dismissed 283 either for want of prosecution or because the parties were reconciled, granted permanent alimony to eight women, granted five annulments, reinstated 11 cases and denied three divorces.

The hardest working horses in the land!

THERE'S no form of land or air transportation which gets so much work out of so little horsepower as your railroads.

Here's what we mean: To carry a ton of freight by plane requires, on the average, a pull of 100 horsepower. A highway truck needs about 15 horsepower for every ton hauled. But, to move a ton of freight by rail requires only 2 horsepower!

No wonder the railroads are carrying 75% of the Nation's total freight . . . moving thousands of tons of war materials and essential civilian products at an average rate of less than 1 cent a ton mile!

Crash Survivor Wants No Part Of Shangri-La

Three Survivors Say 47 Days
In Peaceful New Guinea
Valley Was Enough

PORTLAND Ore., July 17—(INS)—One of three survivors of the plane crash Sunday, May 13, in New Guinea's hidden "Shangri-La" valley, is well content with his memories and a few souvenirs of the adventure—an axe and bow and arrow.

Tech. Sgt. Kenneth W. Decker, 34, rested at Barnes General hospital today and confessed he wouldn't trade his little life in the valley where he and two others were rescued until they were rescued.

Forty-seven days
Rescued by glider from the jungle where he, with WAC Cpl. Margaret Hastings of Oswego, N. Y., and Lt. John S. McCollum of Trenton, Mo., spent 47 days, Decker said the adventure began like a dream.

He remembered taking off in the glider, next he knew he was outside the burning plane, legs burned and head bleeding on a high rocky ledge. Twenty-one of the 24 passengers lay dead.

The WAC corporal was also suffering from bad leg burns and after a couple of days at the cold heights the three knew their only hope lay in reaching a lower elevation.

They salvaged all they could from the plane—some candy, some boric acid salve and canned water—and started down. It took two days to descend 1,500 feet through the jungle.

Little WAC Could Take It
"I don't think many girls in the army could have done it," Sgt. Decker said. "The corporal was small but she had plenty of grit. After we got down we kidded her about going feminine again."

The fourth day when the party reached a clearing was eventful. "When the B-17 came over, sighted our signal sheets and dipped its wings we knew some of our troubles were over," Decker said.

"The natives began pecking at us from the jungle about the same time. The clearing we were in was their sweet potato patch. They carried spears but acted as afraid of us as we were of them."

Finally an old man, their leader, came over and shook hands.

Blew On His Head
"They could see we were hurt," the sergeant added, "and one old fellow who might have been a medicine man, came up and blew on my head. That was about all the treatment they attempted."

Soon the medical treatment was reversed when Capt. Cecil Walters of Portland parachuted into the valley with his Philippine medical unit from the first reconnaissance battalion and, after caring for Cpl. Hastings and Sgt. Decker, began treating the natives for "everything from sore toes up."

"In the villages the natives all seemed to be expecting us. Most of the women wore little grass skirts. It looked like once these sunbats were on they were there to stay," Decker recalled.

Pigs were everywhere he went on. Bartering was done with small sea shells some of the servicemen wore. One shell bought a box and five bought a pig—no ration points needed.

The weary survivors still had to make a 43-mile hike to "hidden valley" where paratroopers had leveled a small landing field for the glider which brought them out.

Dr. Hayden Tells Of Responsibility Owed Service Men

Interesting Talk Is Given By Acting
Superintendent Of Overlook
Sanitarium, Monday

Rotarians were given a little better insight into the responsibility owed the returned service men, when they were addressed by Dr. Elizabeth Veach Hayden, acting superintendent of Overlook Sanitarium at New Wilmington, at their noon luncheon meeting on Monday.

Dr. Hayden pleaded for a better understanding of the returning servicemen, particularly those who have suffered mental impairment because of their experiences, or those who feel the drag of tropical diseases.

She stated that men who have given their minds to their country are entitled to just as much honor and glory as those who have given arms or legs.

It is time we could get rid of our medieval prejudices against those with mental and nervous ailments, and give them the love and care that is due them.

Life, she stated, is a series of attempts to adjust ourselves from changed and changing personalities to a changed and changing environment.

She stated that we must be prepared to give sympathy and understanding to all those who are returning wounded, disabled, or mentally incapacitated. She pictured the many anxieties these men have gone through, the rigid discipline, the long tortuous hours under fire, all of which have left many men broken in mind and spirit, and for which sympathy and understanding are needed if they are to be cured.

They've Got A "Date!"

HARD WORK and sweat, day after day, month after month, can get monotonous, especially when there are so many inducements to slacken up and take it easy as some folks seem to be doing. It requires a mighty high type of good old American determination to stick to the job these days and work even harder for the war effort.

As proof of their loyalty, United Engineering and Foundry Company employees are carrying on to maintain their outstandingly high production level.

in the manufacture of ordnance and other vital equipment for the armed forces. They'd like to let down too, now and then. So would their sons and brothers and husbands on the fighting fronts! And someday they will... when the war is over and the final Victory won. Until that time comes, United workers will keep right on rolling it out, buying Bonds, subscribing to the War Fund, supporting the Red Cross.

BELGIAN MONARCHY

The fate of the Belgian monarchy, long one of Europe's most popular domestic governments, hangs in the balance today.

Out of the welter of confusion and uncertainty surrounding the refusal of King Leopold III to abdicate, or to precipitate a showdown by returning from his voluntary exile in Austria, emerges one undeniable fact: Leopold has lost the unified support and affection enjoyed by his three predecessors on the Belgian throne.

Belgium's constitutional monarchy was the most liberal in Europe when it was set up by the great European powers in 1831, mainly to avert a general European war following Belgium's revolt against Dutch rule. Although it was feared such a liberal monarchy could not last, Belgium's first king, Leopold I, guided the nation through many crises. The country's grief at his death in 1865 assured unqualified loyalty to his son, Leopold II, who reigned 43 years.

Leopold II's successor, his nephew, Albert I, also was beloved by his people, with whom he had shared the trials of an honorable defeat and German occupation during World War I.

In that war, Albert had defied the

Amnesia Victim Has Been Identified

PITTSBURGH, July 17—(INS)—An attractive 18-year-old amnesia victim was identified today by members of her family as Mary Ann Beck of Pittsburgh, hospital attendants reported.

Miss Beck left home Sunday, her family declared, after saying she was going to visit a friend in Millvale. She was unable to remember anything that happened before she got off a trolley in North Side and wandered into a police station.

Doctors, who reported her a victim of amnesia, have detained her in a Pittsburgh hospital for observation.

Ratification Of Charter Likely By August 1

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(INS) Senate administration leaders expect the United Nations Charter to be ratified by August 1, but made it clear today that, with some members demanding more information, they have not a deadline for Senate action.

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (D-Mont.), one of several members still undecided on whether to support the security document, said he wanted to "satisfy" himself on the questions involved through floor debate. A similar position was taken by Sens. Henrik Shipstead (R-Minn.) and William Langer (R-N.D.).

The charter comes up in the Senate next Monday, July 23. The leadership plainly did not want to emulate the San Francisco conference by fixing a "target date" and then find it impossible of attainment.

Carry More Weight
Wheeler contended that debate in the Senate would "carry more weight" than testimony before the Senate foreign relations committee.

He said he was especially concerned over how far the charter seeks to take away from Congress its constitutional power to declare war.

Wheeler proposed that Congress should "let the people" determine when to use American armed force rather than delegate that authority to the representative in the security council of the United Nations.

He attacked as "entirely erroneous" the claim of charter advocates that it would be unconstitutional to attach a reservation requiring Congressional approval before American armed forces could be used by the world organization.

Instead of Congress delegating more power to the president or anybody to put us into war," he said, "what we ought to do is submit it to the people and let them tell us whether they want us in."

The charter was formally reported to the Senate by the foreign relations committee yesterday, with Shipstead abstaining from voting. This left the vote 21 to 1—Sen. Hiram W. Johnson (R-Cal.) who opposed the league of nations in 1919 the lone dissenter.

The likeness of only one woman—Martha Washington—has ever appeared on United States paper currency. And yet there are some who insist that money talks!

County League Plays Tonight

Moose Entertain Legion At Marshall Field—Ellwood
At Hillsville—Eden-
burg At Wampum

Lawrence County baseball fans will have their appetites appeased tonight with the playing of three fine games in various parts of the county. The games will start at 6 o'clock.

New Castle fans will have a great game at Marshall Field in the Croton district to watch when the American Legion All-Stars will battle the Moose club. Manager, Ed Rodenbaugh will probably pitch Prost tonight against Al Koszela, the recent one-hitter star. The Moose team undefeated in two second-half games to date will try hard to make it three in a row while the Legion team, managed by "Sheriff" Cohn, will strive to dampen the Moose hopes and grab their second league win.

Edenburgh At Wampum
The Edenburgh Tigers will journey to Wampum to battle the Wampum Victory club in what should prove a highly interesting game. The Tigers have yet to win a second-half game being on the short-end three times, but tonight they hope to chase the jinx. Jess Exposito will take up the pitching chores, with Powell opposing him.

Wampum with a win and a defeat in the second half to date hope to win and stay in the race.

Ellwood At Hillsville
Ellwood City's undefeated second-half team, and first-half champions will journey to Hillsville tonight for a tussle. It will be Ralph "Spec" Ferrante on the hill for the Ellwoodians with Hillsville's Manager Dom Perrot probably picking Hardesty to toss them.

Hillsville a new entry the second-half has won one and lost two and hope to make it 300 percent tonight by trouncing the Mundo-Friedhoff combination. Hillsville has been looking forward to this game and will be at the top of their stride. The game should draw the banner crowd of the year to the fine Hillsville ball park.

Grid Officials Are Facing Tests

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.—(INS)—The eastern association of inter-collegiate football officials announced Monday that a new three-year agreement has been drawn up for the selection of gridiron arbiters.

President James J. Ailinger, said applicants will be tested on the rules and manual of Sept. 15 and 16. Meetings are tentatively scheduled for Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Boston, Philadelphia, New York, and Baltimore.

The agreement becomes effective on Jan. 1 for the 1946 season, and new members will be admitted in September, it was announced.

A freshman footballer at Penn State is named Wallace Triplett III. Already, he's heralded as a triple threat.

SHE'S MAKING A COMEBACK

MRS. DOROTHY WILLIAMSON KEIL, member of the New York Women's Swimming Association, is making a comeback this summer after being out of action for the last two years. Mrs. Keil, runner-up in the senior national diving championships at Chicago two years ago, is the wife of a U. S. fiver stationed in Australia. (International)

Fair Or Foul

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 17.—Here I go getting the baseball people mad at me again.

What I am about to do is wonder how long this war must last before the people in Washington quit discriminating against horse-racing and decide that perhaps other sports should be looked at, too.

At the moment we have a ban against the shipment of horses from one track to another. I think that is a very good idea if the Washington officials deem it necessary. But why pick on the horses?

Why Just Horses?
I just took out a tape measure and figured out that one horse equals about six ball players in traveling space. I also find that horses seldom are transported in these times. Yet ball players are shuttling back and forth from one city to another as a daily or weekly occurrence.

If the travel ban is what it seems to be it should take in baseball and all other sports and not confine itself to horses, which actually are using less travel space than ever before and much less than the ball clubs.

If you figure that the major leagues are transporting close to five hundred people every three or four days on short hauls or long ones you can see that this particular branch of sports probably is taxing our transportation facilities. The problem isn't serious considering how much traveling is done by others outside of sports, but why pick on the horses. They are settled now at the various tracks and utilizing less accommodations on the trains than even one ball club.

Doesn't Seem Fair
I also think that the people in Washington might arrange their directives to say that taking effect a week or so hence this will be the case. Instead of operating like Gestapo. When they stopped racing last January it was on quick notice after horsemen had shipped from the east to the south and west. They were stranded far from home base.

Washington has a war to fight, as we all know, but somehow seems to be concerned with heckling the horse people that the war is running second in importance.

The latter are without defense. They are in a luxury business. But you can get just as hungry around a race track as in a ball field.

As for the travel, I believe sincerely that the horse people have done their utmost to fit their operations in the war effort and in my opinion banning the transfer of horses from one track to another is a petty thing. It should take in the ball clubs and all sports to be really worthwhile and without the taint of discrimination.

AMERICAN ATHLETIC SUPREMACY
In track and field is slumping badly in the opinion of Lawson Robertson, a veteran turf and cinder mentor at the University of Pennsylvania. Robertson warns one of the most serious problems confronting college coaches is the development of athletes in the various field events.

SHENANGO POTTERY GOLF
The Shenango Pottery golfers will go to Castle Hills course tonight for another round in their interesting league. The matches are to get under way by 6 o'clock.

Natural Beauty In Slippery Rock Valley Is Lauded By Artist

In these days of restricted travel, gasoline rationing and no sleepers under 450 miles, western Pennsylvania and particularly those residents of the western border line counties need not feel badly. Right here at home, within ten miles of New Castle, we have one of Nature's most whimsical and spectacular pieces of work, the Slippery Rock creek.

Hills that challenge the ambitions, rushing surges that take the brown, placid waters that invite the angler, and steep formations that deflect the geologist and the artist. It's all there and in these July days there isn't a spot in this part of the world that has more to offer.

McConnell's Mills. From McConnell's Mills down to where the Slippery Rock joins the picturesque Connoquenessing at Wurtzburg the valley is one of beauty and grandeur, a place of continuing interest for the artist, the naturalist, the historian or the ordinary citizen who just wants to see Nature at her best.

For short, spectacular beauty, for rugged scenery and for serene waters that boil and hiss as they hurt themselves at house-size boulders, McConnell's Mills is perhaps the best.

Here is the best evidence of what the glacier did 100 centuries or more ago. When the Continental ice came down from Labrador it did strange things. It gouged out huge depressions that we now call lakes, it changed the flow of rivers from north to south, it deposited plants and shrubs from the Arctic down into the temperate zone.

When it got to the Slippery Rock it found a gentle stream that flowed westerly course across the country from shore the head of the present gorge to enter the Beaver river below.

low New Castle. The ice cap or glacier dammed up the western outlet of the creek, compelling it to carve and scum out a Y shaped trench nine miles long and in places more than 400 feet deep, through such massive rock strata as the Pottstown sandstone whose huge fragments strand the creek bed, looking for all the world as though some giants had been hurling rocks at each other.

Odd Plants

The botanist finds the Slippery Rock valley a gold mine of interest. Some 35 varieties of trees can be found, and such wildflowers as the star flower, wood-cornel, various orchids, violets, ferns, pipsissewa, and many others. Bird life is abundant and animal life while not as varied as it was a century ago is still abundant.

Every year sees new enthusiasts for the Slippery Rock valley and particularly the region near McConnell's Mills. For years there has been a desire upon nature lovers to make this district a public park and the time is long since overdue when such a movement should come to fruition.

Lauded By Artist

Here in Lawrence county perhaps the beauties of the Slippery Rock creek are so near they have become commonplace. Visitors find it a never ceasing source of wonder. Set. Victor O'Brien, a Pittsburgh artist, who is a resident at Deshon Annex, puts it this way:

"From the standpoint of the artist there is no more lovely place in this part of the country. In many ways it exceeds the grandeur of the country near New Hope, Pa., where artists have established a colony to trap the beauties of nature on canvas. The Slippery Rock offers as much and more."

It would be a shame if the region around McConnell's Mills was not made a public park, this guaranteeing the generations to come one of the loveliest, wildest spots in Pennsylvania.

Yes, it's a grand spot in these vacation days. It has everything, from bass fishing to mountain climbing. The idea that it should be made into a public park is so obvious that it needs no repeating. What the idea needs is some work and a little money.

A new all-plastic tire which will not crack or check in sunlight and is not soluble in gasoline or oil and which will withstand twice the heat a natural tire develops at high speed has been developed for post-war use by the engineers of a large tire plant.

Marrows should be picked when about two-thirds grown to be at their best. Older marrows can be used for pies and the rind for preserves.

Summer squash loses its flavor and tenderness once it has become over-developed. It is best to use them before the flesh has become fibrous and the skin tough.

Beets may be attacked by some of the weevils. These pests web the leaves together and eat the seedlings. They can be controlled by spraying with arsenate of lead.

August is not too late for planting kale, turnips and late squash.

All three of these pests are quite common. Endive is very heavy and not easily killed by frost, therefore it is especially valuable for fall salad greens.
